

From Pastor Marissa Becklin

Stewardship: Nurturing God's Gifts In Our Faith United Community

As we enter the season of autumn, we are reminded of the abundant blessings that surround us—the changing colors of the leaves, the crispness in the air, and the warmth of community that defines our church family. In this season of gratitude, we turn our hearts toward stewardship, reflecting on the responsibility and joy of caring for the gifts God has bestowed upon us.

Stewardship: A Sacred Duty

In the Lutheran tradition, we understand stewardship as a sacred duty—a way of expressing our gratitude for the immeasurable gifts God has given us. Stewardship is not merely about financial contributions; it encompasses the careful and intentional use of our time, talents, and resources to further God's kingdom on Earth.

As we reflect on the concept of stewardship, we are benefited by hearing the words of 1 Peter 4:10: "Each of you should use whatever gift you have received to serve others, as faithful stewards of God's grace in its various forms." We are all blessed with unique talents and resources, and it is through the wise and loving use of these gifts that we fulfill our role as faithful stewards.

Nurturing God's Gifts: A Call To Action

Our church community is a tapestry woven with diverse talents and passions. As we move through this autumn season of giving thanks together, I invite all of us to consider anew how we can nurture God's gifts within us:

Time: Consider how you spend your time. Can you allocate more moments to prayer, community service, or connecting with fellow members?

Talents: Reflect on the skills and talents you possess. How can these be utilized to serve others, whether through volunteering, leading a ministry, or sharing your expertise?

Treasures: Prayerfully assess your financial resources. How can your financial contributions support the mission and ministries of our church? Remember, it is not the size of the gift that matters, but the sincerity of the heart.

A Season Of Gratitude And Commitment

In the spirit of thanksgiving, let us come together to celebrate the blessings we have received and commit to being faithful stewards. This commitment is not just for ourselves but for the generations that will follow, ensuring that Faith United continues to be a beacon of hope in our community.

In Christ, Pastor Marissa